

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CFO of ClearVision Consulting Achieves Certified Management Accountant Status

Alameda, CA – April 30, 2013 – Paul Beadleston, J.D., CFO of ClearVision Consulting, has earned the Certified Management Accountant (CMA®) designation and joins the top 1% of accountants in the world who have attained this certification. A former contractor negotiator and attorney, Mr. Beadleston is currently a Controller guiding small and mid-size business growth and development. He assumed the role of CFO in January 2012 when ClearVision Consulting was incorporated, providing strategic insight into growth opportunities and tactical oversight of financial practices and controls.

Accountants who achieve the CMA have displayed proficiency in many facets of accounting and financial management. This proficiency is demonstrated by completing a nationwide comprehensive examination on accounting and related subjects, meeting a two-year management accounting experience requirement and agreeing to comply with the Standards of Ethical Conduct for Management Accountants. These abilities make those who have achieved the CMA an invaluable member of the businesses they work for.

Mr. Beadleston is a member of the Institute of Management Accountants (IMA®), which established the Institute of Certified Management Accountants (ICMA®) in 1972 to oversee the CMA examination process. With over 65,000 members, IMA is the world's leading organization dedicated to empowering accounting and finance professionals to drive business performance.
